DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is in response to the applicant's amendment filed January 6, 2005. Claims 1, 15, and 29-32 have been amended. Claims 1-32 are pending in this case.

Response to Arguments

2. The amendments to claims 1, 15, and 29-32 have cured the section 101 rejections, which are hereby withdrawn.
3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-32 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over, inter alia, Ginter et al (US 6,389,402) in view of Gilbert (Operators can gain with creative merchandising, Automatic merchandise, p80, Oct 1992).
6. Claims 1-32 of the instant application disclose a method of selling and distributing pet care products, services and information via website where the preferred providers are such pet-related businesses a pet shops, and veterinarian's offices. Ginter (see, e.g. col 2 ln 50 – col 3 ln 60) discloses methods of selling via Internet website. Gilbert provides a number of examples of distributing related items merchandise at various types of stores in order to increase sales. Examples in Gilbert are supermarkets promoting the sales of charcoal by selling hot dogs, hamburgers, steaks, marshmallows, etc. (e.g. p80).

7. Ginter and Gilbert do not explicitly show selling pet care products through a website and distributing said products through veterinarian's offices or other pet care providers. However, these are differences found only in the non-functional data. Thus, this descriptive material will not distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art in terms of patentability, see Cf. In re Gulack, 703 F.2d 1381, 1385, 217 USPQ 401, 404 (Fed. Cir. 1983); In re Lowry, 32 F.3d 1579, 32 USPQ2d 1031 (Fed. Cir. 1994).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to apply such digital information to mail pieces or to any other object and then monitor the use of the information.

8. Examiner's note: Examiner has cited particular columns and line numbers in the references as applied to the claims above for the convenience of the applicant.

Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings in the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may be applied as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant, in preparing the responses, to fully consider the references in entirety as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior art or disclosed by the examiner.
